Dear Customer,

As you are aware from numerous news reports, the COVID-19 outbreak, commonly referred to as “Coronavirus”, is causing a variety of issues across the globe, including the potential to affect the supply of certain goods and materials and shipments from other countries.

As for the potential business impact to you, Atkore does not currently expect any issues fulfilling customer orders. We have sourced raw materials appropriately and our manufacturing facilities are operating as scheduled.

The spread of Coronavirus, information regarding health control measures, and the global impact to businesses and the economy remain dynamic. As such, we will keep you updated regarding any changes to our ability to serve you.

Our focus remains on continuing to provide outstanding customer service and partnering to grow our mutual businesses. We ask that you continue to monitor your own specific business requirements and contact us with any changes so we can quickly address your orders.

Please contact me with any questions you may have regarding this situation.

Regards,

Steve
